

Monicor – equipment for examination and treatment

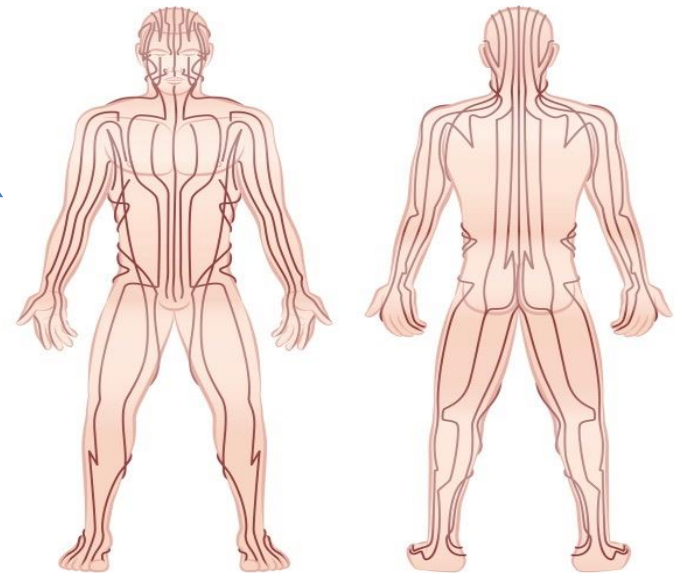

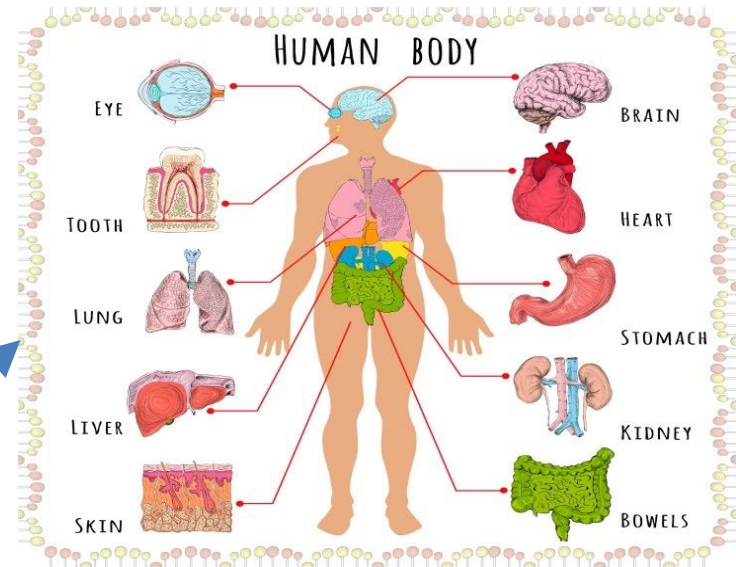

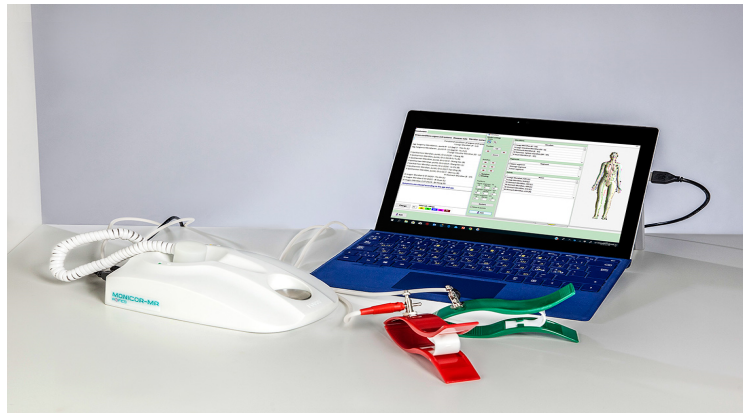

Monicor is a new system for health examination and treatments, presenting new possibilities to create health. In a few minutes, the device scans the entire body and all its organs and presents the functional status and stress level of these.

The human body is not only a physical being, it is also comprised of an energetic- and an information structure. Each organ and body part has its own vibrations, which are reflected in biochemical parameters in the respective organs.

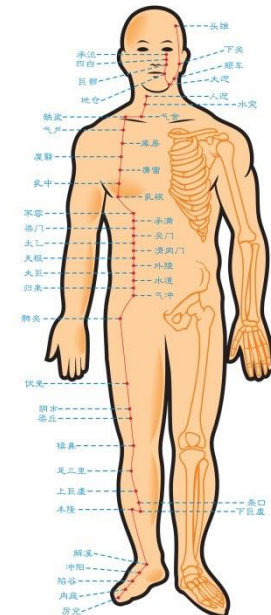

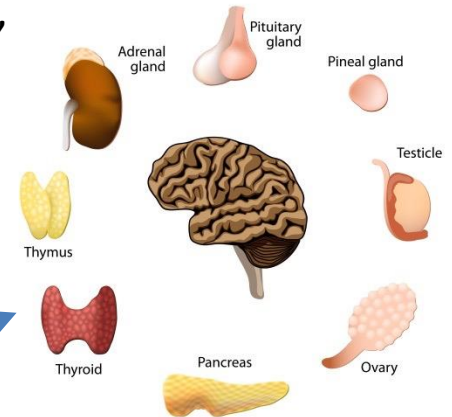

Monicor performs health evaluations of organs, systems and acupuncture meridians

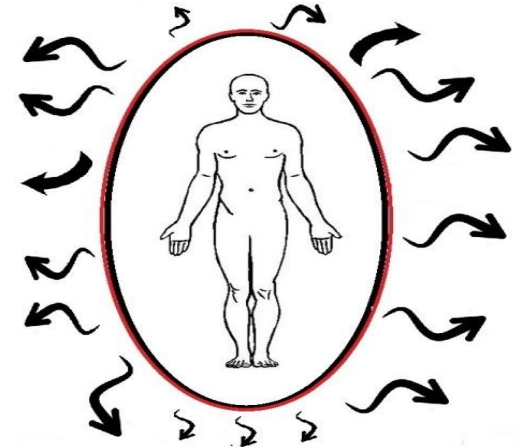

ENDOCRINE SYSTEM

Supplements, vegetables, fruits and all kind of foods have their frequencies. The device is, via resonance, able to detect how well different supplements and nutrients fit us.

Monicor's program recognizes the frequencies of a majority of existing parasites and is able to detect if any of these exist in the body. If so, Monicor is able to eliminate the parasites by applying the right frequencies.

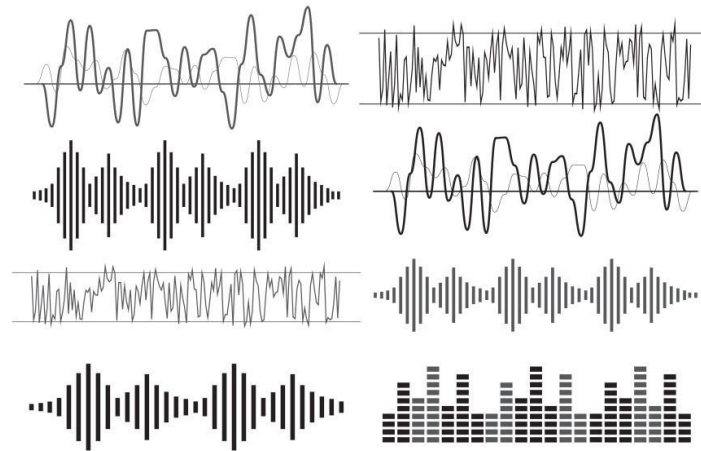

The device is also able to read the frequencies of acupuncture points and show which points are weak. By choosing the weakest points and also correcting them, we are able to offer an optimal acupuncture treatment.

The device is able to choose the correct treatment by selecting an actual symptom and from there calculate which zones or points to treat.

Monicor is able to analyse the efficiency of different types of treatments in real time.

The device is also able to show how technogenic frequencies in the room affect your organs and systems.

The use of Monicor is intergrated in the medical practice in Russia, used by cosmonauts and, thanks to its high efficiency and being so easy to use, has recieved much acclaim and many awards in Russia and other countries.

Medal for contribution to the development of Astronautics

Medal from the European Academy

Medal for contribution to development and innovation in health care